Have you been compared to an ancestor, has anyone in your family said you are like this person, by word, deed, or actions? Have you ever felt out of place in your life, listless, as though there is a purpose you have yet to fulfill? What if you found a portal through which you could travel to the past? What would you do; where would it lead? Join Bob Longmont as he takes a journey of self-discovery into his past, or is it his future? Watch as he becomes mentally, physically, ethically and morally stronger. He will discover the identity of the person behind a shadowy figure seen off and on in western stories and Native American lore. In this journey, he will come face to face with his history, navigating through moral and ethical dilemmas, intimate relationships, life and death struggles, all while fighting to keep history intact.
