Not illustrated. 1904 Excerpt: ...violets yon field which stain Are moles of beauties Time hath slain. UNBAR the door, since thou the Opener art, Show me the forward way, since thou art guide, I put no faith in pilot or in chart, Since they are transient, and thou dost abide. FROM ALI BEN ABU TALEB HE who has a thousand friends has not a friend to spare, And he who has one enemy will meet him everywhere. ON two days it steads not to run from thy grave, The appointed, and the unappointed day; On the first, neither balm nor physician can save, Nor thee, on the second, the Universe slay. FROM IBN JEMIN Two things thou shalt not long for, if thou love a mind serene;---A woman to thy wife, though she were a crowned queen; And the second, borrowed money,--though the smiling lender say _ That he will not demand the debt until the Judgment Day. THE FLUTE non HILALI HARK what, now loud, now low, the pining flute complains, Without tongue, yellow-cheeked, full of winds that wail and sigh; Saying, Sweetheart! the old mystery remains,--If I am I; thou, thou; or thou art I? TO THE SHAH PROM HAFIZ THY foes to hunt, thy enviers to strike down, Poises Arcturus aloft morning and evening his spear. TO THE SHAH FROM ENWERI N01 in their houses stand the stars, But oer the pinnacles of thine!. TO THE SHAH FROM ENWERI FROM thy worth and weight the stars gravitate, And the equipoise of heaven is thy houses equipoise. SONG OF SEYD NIMETOLLAH OF KUHISTAN Among the religious customs of the dervishes is an astronomical dance, in which the dervish imitates the movements of the heavenly bodies, by spinning on his own axis, whilst at the same time he revolves round the Sheikh in the centre, representing the sun; and, as he spins, he sings the Song of Seyd Nimetollah of Kuhistan. SPIN the ball! I reel...
